CO-TEACH
PLAY # 90

Partner A is referring to a particular section of the page displayed on the screen. Partner B observes that several students are having difficulty finding their place on their copy and are not looking to the screen for input. Partner B moves to the document camera, and screens out excess text, helping to focus students' visual attention on the specific text being discussed. While Partner B is adjusting the visuals, Partner A moves into circulation.

ACTION: Monitor student responses and modify instruction as needed.

No coordination and/or advanced planning required.
