

Management of the Learning Environment

CO-TEACH
PLAY # 92

During groupwork, students are having trouble sharing information from their individual worksheets with each other. Partners discuss the situation and decide to provide a large-scale version of worksheets to each group. Students refer to the large-scale versions when discussing their work.

ACTION: Modify materials to improve effectiveness of groupwork.

Some coordination and/or advanced planning may be required.

Play # 92

A central focus helps students with attention issues orient to the topic of discussion. In cases where one student tends to dominate the group, the large-scale model allows more students to interact. A large-scale model also assists partners as they circulate and call attention to specific information on the worksheet.
