

Co-TEACH
PLAY # 104

Events are leading to a potential conflict between Partner A and a student. Partner B has been in circulation and has observed the situation develop. Partner B formulates an approach to managing the situation, interjects and recommends a solution. Partner A accepts Partner B's suggestion, and the management strategy is applied.

ACTION: Demonstrate mutual support when managing student behavior.

Some coordination and/or advanced planning required.

Play # 104

Partner B is not involved in the conflict and can perform a more objective analysis of the situation. Partner A demonstrates trust by acceding to Partner B's intervention strategy. The student may be more accepting of the solution since it comes from the teacher with whom there is no conflict.
